Remembrance

Over the past few decades there has been an increasing interest and awareness of all things "Celtic" – be they musical, historical, cultural or religious : including Celtic Christianity. Lindisfarne (Holy Island) in Northumbria and Iona of the end of the tip of Mull are popular pilgrimage and retreat destination.

The Celtic Church was one of the earliest in the British Isles. Christianity does not seem to have taken a deep root during the period of Roman occupation. It appears to have been confined largely to Roman colonists and those Britons who had adopted Roman attitudes and customs and not to have made much impact on the bulk of the indigenous Celtic population. When the Romans left in the early fifth century, much of England seems to have reverted to paganism although some pockets of Christian belief and observance may have survived.

Whether those living in the Celtic fringes of Britain first came into contact with the Christian religion through the Romans or via some independent source is difficult to establish. Tertullian of Carthage (in North Africa), writing around the year 210, refers to "regions of the Britons inaccessible to the Romans but subject to Christ"

Whatever its source, the Christian faith of the Celtic peoples of Ireland, Scotland and Wales was certainly vigorous enough to have a considerable impact well beyond the shores of Britain when the Romans departed at the beginning of the fifth century. As Teutonic tribes overran the rest of Europe, including most of England which experienced its first Saxon invasion in 428, and brought a return to barbarism and paganism, the Celtic lands on the western extremity of the Continent alone retained their culture and faith. They quickly became a haven for Christians fleeing from the Continent in the face of these barbarian hordes and this must have further strengthened their position as strongholds of the faith.

Christian recovery in the south of England began with 597 Augustine's mission from Rome to England (the south). Inevitably the two Christian 'understandings' would meet to try and resolve differences in their approach. The Council of Whitby in 664 resulted in the future dominance of the Church of Rome rather than the Celtic across Britain : Rome was better organised and resourced – they rode on horses to the Whitby meeting; the Celtic Christians walked ! .... ? orthodox allegiance & influence... ? dates of split

News of the distinctive principles and practices of the churches in the eastern Mediterranean, including the idea of monasticism, may have reached the British Isles directly and not just via Gaul. There are a number of fascinating similarities between the Celtic Christianity which developed in the far west of Europe from the fifth century and the older church communities on the eastern edge of Christendom.

There are many interesting concepts in the Celtic Christian tradition. Until recently, access to source documents and writings of the tradition have been restricted generally to academics in universities. Now, with the publication of Mary C. Earle's "Celtic Christian Spirituality" (subtitled "Essential writings") a wider audience can be reached. The Celtic Christians beheld the world around them and perceived the divine life of God upholding every aspect of the material universe. Their prayers and poems, their liturgies and their theological texts give Christians a sense of a faith that is confident in a merciful and infinitely creative, healing God. The primary texts from the Celtic Christian tradition are presented in the book – with selections from the writings of Pelagius, Eriugena and St Patrick, as well as prayers and poems from Wales, the Outer Hebrides and Ireland.

The price of this valuable book to our understanding of our own native Christian heritage is priced at £9-99 (RRP), but is available by post from "A Great Read" at £8-49 (Tel.01373 – 823451).

Yours, in Christ, Robert Spaight

On behalf of the PCC I would like to thank everyone who helped to make the Church's 150th celebrations such a wonderful time.

The Church was packed for our Songs of Praise service and we were treated to home made cakes and coffee afterwards. There were plenty of Harvest gifts for the Nomad Trust for which I am sure they will find good use.

Finally, thank you to all who gave so generously.

At the time of writing this (Tuesday 16th October) the celebrations "coin collection" plus tax recovered on Gift Aided donations has raised £1139.52 to support the ongoing work of the Church.

Once again thank you all.

REPORT OF PARISH COUNCIL MEETING HELD ON 4TH OCTOBER 2012

Vandalism to play equipment – Continued vandalism has occurred at the village hall on the play equipment resulting in further damage to the climbing frame. The cost of the repair will be in the region of £400.

St Edward's Drive footpath – The Highways Department of LCC have informed the Parish Council that they will include the stretch of footpath on St Edward's Drive between Scothern Road and The Paddocks on the slurry seal programme for next year.

Suggested purchase of flower tubs – Unfortunately there were only two volunteers to set up and maintain a flower tub near to the entrances to the village so the suggestion has been shelved for the time being. # Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor

As a resident of Sudbrooke for 25 years, I am aware of the development of the village, however due to more traffic on the road, can other residents be mindful of the speed they drive.

I have known of 3 cats being killed in the Northfield Park area, and one seriously injured twice in two separate incidents. Obviously cats roam and are unaware of danger, but on one incident, brakes of the said vehicle actually screeched. Now to be able to hear a vehicle screech their brakes to stop, means they are obviously exceeding the speed limit !!

Also we have to think about children freely playing within our areas and what if this had been a child???. On another note as a car driver, I have almost been hit in the side of my car on various occasions by vehicles NOT giving way to the junction of Broad Dale close and also Maple Drive!

Once upon a time Sudbrooke was safe. I am not so sure now.

Both leaders of Scothern Rainbows have given 20 years service to Girl Guiding and sixteen years ago jointly opened Scothern Rainbows. We have very much enjoyed our time with Guiding over the years, but have both decided to retire from the end of July 2013.

To continue Rainbows after this date we require 2 adults to come forward to run the Unit. Training would be given for anyone interested to gain their warranted status.

Unfortunately if no one comes forward the Unit will have to close.

If you are interested in running the Unit please contact: Liz Inder on 01673 862592 or Lesley Sands on 01673 862360

BEST KEPT VILLAGE COMPETITION

The winners in the Best Kept Village Competition in the same Class as Sudbrooke were 1st Tetney, 2nd Scotton, 3rd Harlaxton

Judge's comments were as follows:-

Overall appearance and condition – small amount of litter, no graffiti or vandalism observed. Roads and paths well maintained. Several driveways in need of weeding.

Green spaces – Football field in good condition. Secure children's playground behind the village hall. Little obvious provision for wildlife seen. Jubilee Garden project – a credit to the village.

Public premises – Village Hall well maintained. Notices displayed were clear and included BKV competition poster. There was a very useful village map. The Jubilee Garden notice board was very informative. Sudbrooke Park Gates and information in good order – well maintained paths and hedges to entrance.

Private premises – These varied in standard of care. With some being outstanding and others being in need of some attention.

Religious buildings – The newer section of the churchyard to the rear of the church was well maintained. The older graves to the front and adjacent to the road are in need of attention.

Notice board is clear and displays BKV poster.

Overall community effort – The development of a Diamond Jubilee Garden adjacent to the millennium stone; the community woodworking project; the group litter picks; the seat given by the Caring Team - all give evidence of an awareness of pride in the village.

General Comments – It was very helpful to have the additional relevant information for our visit (supplied by the Clerk with the application form, along with a copy of Sudbrooke News). There are obviously groups who care and are prepared to work to enhance the life of this village.

VULNERABLE PREMISES

Dear Householder

With the end of British Summertime and the clocks changing consider the advice below, to make your home less attractive to the opportunist criminal.

- Don't leave windows open or milk bottles and papers on view.
- A property in darkness is a clear sign that no one is home. Use a timer device to switch on a light.

The cost of having a 20 watt low energy light bulb (which is as bright as a 100 watt bulb) switched on for 10 hours is less than ten pence a day. (An additional tip is to also have a radio playing to make it sound as if someone is home).

- Don't leave spare keys outside or in a garage or shed.
- Don't leave garden tools or ladders outside. The opportunist criminal will use them to gain entry into your home.

Follow these tips and make your home more secure.

Margaret Green entertained us at our September meeting with her tales about Lincoln Ghosts. She also brought a collection of ghostly photographs.

Marie Curie Cancer Care was the subject of Judy Glosop's talk at our October meeting. She brought items for sale for her charity's funds.

These speakers were much appreciated by members.

Future meetings:

Thursday 15th November: Michelle Bolton-'Leafy Spaces'.

Please note that this meeting will take place as advertised. Some doubt was expressed at the last meeting.

Thursday 20th December: Christmas Party. Please let a committee member know if you are unable to attend so that we know numbers for catering.

We meet on the third Thursday of each month at 730 pm in the Bramham Lounge at the Village Hall. We have a guest speaker at most meetings. Guests are welcome and are asked to contribute £2.

We continue our book stall and collection of stamps and small coins for charity.

The money raised is donated to a local charity when it reaches £200.

Please see the Parish Council website for full 2012 programme.

Welton & District Patients And Doctors Association

I am writing this whilst recovering from our very busy Autumn Fayre held yesterday and what a successful day it was. After a moderately quiet start our supporters began to arrive and very soon the village hall seemed to fill up. There was a good atmosphere and all the stalls were very well supported. The tombola stalls, cake stall, books and bric a brac and the cafe had queues of people while other stalls and games had a steady stream of interest.

The final proceeds for the day were approx £2064 which is a magnificent amount and makes all the hard work worthwhile.

The raffle raised £1149.60 so a big thank you to everyone who bought and sold tickets and to all the businesses and local people who kindly donated prizes. I can't list all the prize winners but if there is someone called Tilley who bought tickets, could they please get in touch with me? (862570)

For those interested the name of the Teddy was Daisy, The value of goods in the trolley was £60.54 and the cake weighed 4lb 1oz or metric 1kg 830gm I have 2 pieces of 'lost property' found in the hall when we cleared up. A hair band probably belonging to a little girl and a small photograph which says on the back 'Johnny Davis and me Jan 1943 Teheran' If you recognise either of these please give me a call and I will return them to their owners.

The PDA would like to give a huge thank you to everyone who supported this event or who helped in any way. Without our supporters and helpers we couldn't make an event like this possible so thank you!

The PDA Christmas Lunch will be held on Friday 7th December in Welton Village Hall. Tickets, priced £5.50 for a 3 course meal, will be available from the Health Centre Dispensary or Roy Minnitt (860980) from 1st November. The menu will comprise orange juice, roast turkey with seasonal veg and the usual accompaniments followed by either trifle or Christmas pudding, tea/ coffee and mints. The bar will be open as usual for you to purchase your drinks. There will be the usual cake stall, raffle and book sale so book your tickets early to avoid disappointment as numbers are limited.

The 'flu campaign is well underway and if you are in the "at risk" group or unsure, please ask at reception. Saturday morning open 'flu clinics have proved really successful and thank you to all who have used this service.

As mentioned in last month's newsletter article, we are working towards recalling patients for chronic disease reviews for their annual check up in the month of their birthday. This may mean that during this year some patients may receive an invitation slightly sooner than anticipated. The letter will state what is required – in many cases blood tests being taken at least a week prior to the appointment so that a full review can take place. If in doubt please check with reception staff.

Dispensary staff wish to remind patients that authorised repeat prescriptions may be ordered via the internet using our website link or by telephoning the twenty four hour answering machine. Please allow forty eight hours for processing and if the prescription is to be dispensed at a chemist via the collection system, a further forty eight hours

Following on from recent patient survey results and feedback generally, we are aiming to return to a local telephone number from early December. Further details relating to the changeover will be in next months newsletter.

Finally we are delighted to announce the arrival of a baby boy to Dr Porter and a baby girl for Nurse Nicky Welburn. All babies now safely delivered and doing well ! Dr Nellist will be returning from maternity leave in early December and joining the partnership from January 2013.

Great October Storm of 1987

The day started well. I was lying in bed. Then I got up, and it went downhill from there. The date was Friday 15th October 1987. I was living and working at that time in North West London long before I returned to my roots and moved back to live in Sudbrooke. You may recall the date. It was when the weather forecaster for the BBC Michael Fish made the biggest gaff of his life by announcing that the weather would be reasonably calm and dry with the odd shower and light winds. The reality was far from that. It turned out to be the date of The Great Storm. It was when a hurricane hit South East England causing terrible damage to property and brought down hundreds of trees, walls and fences providing loads of columns for newspapers TV and radio and many books have been written about it. Here is my story of how it affected me personally .

I was a shift worker and was working late in the West End of Central London, finishing work at two am. Towards the end of my shift it became clear that this was not going to be just any normal old night. The wind got up and was extremely strong and with savage strong gusts of enormous power which was literally bowling pedestrians off their feet. Dustbins and roof tiles were flying around with clouds of newspaper, leaves and full bags of rubbish and bundles of cardboard, together with torn off branches from trees and bushes. As I drove home along Park Lane in Mayfair I had to swerve around several huge fully grown trees that had fallen across the road. Most of these were hundreds of years old. Torn up by the roots. What few cars were about at this time of day were swerving about both from the gusty conditions and to avoid debris on the roads. It was quite a job to hold my vehicle on course as I headed home and I was greatly relieved when finally I arrived there.

It so happened that my wife was away for a few days visiting relatives at this time so I was in charge of the house and alone that weekend. I was relieved to see that no apparent damage had been caused to my home as the full force of the storm had not fully reached that far north at that time as my home was some twelve miles from the West End. I turned on the radio and it was full of reports about this storm creating devastation in South East England. It was with that knowledge that I retired to bed and being extremely tired after work and the drive home I fell asleep at about 4am. Despite the crashing and bashing outside and the roar of the wind and teeming rain, lashing against the windows. I soon nodded off. I have always been a heavy sleeper and it takes a lot to disturb me once I have gone into deep sleep.

I woke at around 8am with my front doorbell ringing loudly. The curtains were still drawn and I opened my front door to suddenly see the following scene. It takes quite a time to describe this scene. But you, Dear Reader, will have to bear with me as I explain. My house was on a hill and had 4 steps leading up to the front door so that on opening my door I had a panoramic view over the scene outside. The house stood on a main road but with a wide service road between the house and that main road. This service road was separated from traffic by a wide strip of bushes grass and a row of very large mature trees. It was bright sunshine outside and there was no wind and no rain .

The scene that met my eyes was truly amazing. Across my driveway and garden a massive 4 feet wide trunk of a huge oak tree was lying with part of it lying on top of my neighbours pride and joy a Mercedes sports car. It had missed my car but completely blocked it in with no damage. Several of the branches had struck the house next door and the debris was lying all around. The roof and front of the house next door was ripped open.

On the main road in front of my house there was water spurting some ten feet up in the air and landing all around. Red London buses were crawling past and there were blue, yellow and green flashing lights from Police, Gas, Electricity and Emergency and Council vehicles flashing away merrily. It was a scene of utter devastation with huge great roots from the trees sticking up in the air in the road having to be negotiated by the traffic. All this greeted me at a glance as I opened my door.

Suddenly a voice said "Morning Guv!. That'll be four pounds eighty please." I looked down and before me saw. It was the milkman!! In all that mayhem here was sanity. He had obviously been making his way along the street conducting his normal routine and because he had taken it all in already it must have seemed perfectly normal and reasonable to get on with his job. Talk about putting it in context. Life goes on whatever happens. But I will never forget that scene on that morning.

Keep smiling!. But don't tell anyone what you are smiling about! That'll keep them guessing!! Life should be fun !!

To quote that little rabbit in the old newsreel "Loony Tune" cartoons. "That's all folks!"

IT Speak

Hi Folks,

This month:
Building Your Own PC—1

I guess the first question you'll be asking is: why would you want to build your own PC? There are 2 answers I can provide. Firstly, you want to know how all the components connect and work together inside the case—this may be a curiosity thing or it might be an educational or vocational need. Secondly, there is a great sense of satisfaction when you power-up the PC for the first time and everything works as you expect. However, even if it doesn't work first time, the subsequent diagnosis and rectification of the fault provides an even greater sense of accomplishment when the PC does eventually burst into life.

When you've made the decision to build your own PC, you need to decide upon a budget and try to stick to it. The PC will be more expensive to build than buy but there are good reasons to go this way. You'll know exactly what went into the PC's case and how it all connects together and therefore, you'll be able to diagnose a faulty component fairly quickly. Also, a PC you buy with a manufacturers badge possibly means that it contains proprietary components that may be difficult to source and/or expensive to buy if the need for replacement arises. However, some components in these systems can be replaced by generic items.

In this series of articles, I'm going to cover the build of a standard PC for family use. To start, you need to create a list of the components you need to buy along with their prices and you should place them in order of importance.

Researching the Internet will ensure the components you buy will be at the best price and will fit together physically. For instance, will the hard drive or processor you buy connect to the system board? Also, beware of using parts from an old system. The hard drive in your 5 year old Dell might have an IDE connection but the new system board you buy might only have SATA connections. These are all considerations that you have to take into account.

To prepare you for the rest of this series, have a read of this article: <http://lifehacker.com/5151369/the-first+timers-guide-to-building-a-computer-from-scratch>

It's a great read and covers some of the pitfalls that could be encountered.

To be continued next month.
